You will not have to pay extra for using An Post services.

Taking money out of your bank account at An Post

You will be able to take money out of your bank account at An Post.

You will need to have an ATM card or a debit card to take money out at An Post.

If you do not have an ATM card or debit card, you will have to go to a Bank of Ireland branch to take money out.

You can take money out up to your card limit. Your card limit is the most money you can take out at one time.

You need to ask at a Bank Of Ireland branch if you want to know your card limit.

Putting money into your bank account at An Post

You will be able to put money into your bank account at An Post.

You can put Euro notes and coins, or cheques into your bank account.

The image shows a 'Lodgment / Credit Transfer' form from the Bank of Ireland. It includes fields for 'Date', 'NSC' (New Sort Code), 'AC Name', 'Pay to the order of', 'Phone No.', and a table for 'Total' amounts. There are also 'Barcode' and 'Barcode Area' sections.

If you want to put money into your bank account at An Post and you don't have an ATM or debit card, then you can use a new form.

This is called a personalised lodgement docket. It has a special barcode.

You use this to put a cheque or money into your bank account.

From June 2021, you can get a new personalised lodgement book at your bank.

You can phone us to get a new book or contact us through our website.

Putting money into your bank account at An Post

At a Bank of Ireland branch, you can put a mixture of money and cheques into your account together.

At An Post, you will need to put them into your bank account separately.

You will not pay extra for this.

Checking how much money is in your bank account

If you take money out of your bank account, the balance will go down straight away. The balance is the amount of money available for withdrawal in your account.

If you pay money into your bank account, the balance may not go up straight away. It can take a short time for the money to go through to your account.

There is a cut-off time in the bank. If you put money into your account after this time, it will show in your balance the next business day.

Business days are Monday to Friday.

Checking how much money is in your bank account

The cut off time for putting money into your account at An Post is 4.30 pm. After 4.30, the money will go through to your account the next day.

When you put a cheque into your bank account at An Post, it may take longer to go through than if you put it in at a Bank of Ireland branch.
