1. Family and friends visiting

LTRCF refers to all congregated care settings where people are intended to remain for extended periods including nursing homes, certain mental health facilities and community housing units for people with disabilities. Acute hospitals are not included in this guidance.

All designated centres for older people and designated centres for children and adults with disabilities must be registered with the Office of the Chief Inspector of the Health Information and Quality Authority (HIQA) who monitor and inspect designated centres regularly to ensure they maintain a high level of care and support. There are also facilities that are not designated (for example some religious homes) that this guidance is also applicable to.

In residential disability services in own-door supported accommodation or small group homes for people with disabilities and particularly where residents are younger and do not have specific medical vulnerability the risk is lower than in larger congregated care settings for older people. There is a separate guidance document that addresses those facilities.

On September 11th, the Government issued a Five Level Framework – Table of Public Health Restrictive Measures that includes visiting to long term residential care facilities (LTRCFs).

It is important to acknowledge that LTRCFs are already facilitating visiting and that there are exemplars of how the competing challenges can be balanced to serve the needs of residents. Whenever visiting is restricted in any way arrangements should be in place to support virtual visiting (telephone or video-link) to the greatest extent possible.

The following summarises the measures at each level of the framework:

Framework Level	Visiting Policy*
Level 1	Open with protective measures
Level 2	Open with enhanced protective measures
Levels 3,4 and 5	Suspended other than in critical and compassionate circumstances*
*Note this is intended to apply to indoor visiting. "Window visiting" where a person stands outside and speaks to a person at safe distance through an open window or by telephone is acceptable at any Framework Level and during Outbreaks. It is acknowledged that window visiting can be challenging for some residents with hearing difficulties but visitors should be encouraged to maintain distance. Likewise, outdoor visiting where safe distance can be maintained at all times need not be restricted at any Framework Level or during Outbreaks where it is appropriate for the resident, it is arranged in advance and there are suitable facilities and capacity to accommodate and support the visit. If suspension of “window visiting” and outdoor visiting are considered this should be in the context of a documented risk assessment. If window visiting or outdoor visiting is suspended, the reasons for the suspension and the expected duration of the suspension should be communicated clearly to residents and relevant other persons.

Version 1.3 of this document has been updated to V1.4 to redefine critical and compassionate circumstances and to clarify a number of additional points that have emerged as questions since issue of V1.3. It is important to note that all decisions regarding restricted access should be documented, including their rationale, in line with the Health Act 2017 (Care and Welfare) Regulations 2013. Restrictions should also take account of the Ethical Considerations Relating to Long-Term Residential Care Facilities available at:

<https://www.gov.ie/en/publication/37ef1-ethical-considerations-relating-to-long-term-residential-care-facilities/>

The challenge for service providers

Managing visiting is challenging for service providers who must balance their obligation to protect all residents and staff from the risk of introduction of COVID-19 with their obligation to facilitate and support visits for residents to the greatest extent possible. To achieve that balance service providers require that prospective visitors undertake to co-operate fully with measures required to ensure that visiting represents the lowest possible risk to all residents and staff. Service providers will need to limit visiting to times when visiting can be effectively supported by available staff and to apply strict limits on the number of visitors that can be accommodated at any one time. Service providers may be obliged to refuse entry to a prospective visitor if the person is unwilling or unable to comply with reasonable measures to protect all residents and staff or if the person has not complied with reasonable measures during a previous visit. Service providers will generally refuse entry to prospective visitors who show evidence of infection unless there are extraordinary circumstances such as expected imminent end of life and the risk can be managed with specific additional measures.

Testing of prospective visitors in advance of visiting is not required.

Communication

Restrictions on visiting are of themselves a source of stress for residents, their friends and families. Any lack of clarity regarding the visiting arrangements and the reasons for them exaggerates the stress and is avoidable. It is essential that the service providers engage with residents, involve them in decision making and communicate clearly with each resident and relevant others regarding visiting policy including any restrictions, the reasons for those restrictions and the expected duration of restrictions. The communication should make it clear that only a very limited number of visitors can be in the LTRCF at one time and that to achieve this it will frequently not be possible to facilitate visitors at a specific time or date of their choosing.

Definitions

Visitors

For the purpose of this guidance visitors may be taken to include people, typically family members or friends, who come to the LTRCF for a social visit. It is important that visitors are clear that they must accept personal responsibility with respect to their obligation to help protect the person they visit, other residents and staff. They must also accept the risk that they may inadvertently be exposed to infection during the visit and that their safety depends in a large measure on their behaviour during the visit. Particularly in the context of an outbreak a signed acceptance of personal responsibility may be appropriate.

The term visitor does not include Essential Service Providers (ESPs). Essential Service Providers are people who provide professional services including healthcare, legal, financial and regulatory. Key examples include those who attend to provide healthcare services such as medical, nursing, dental, physiotherapy, occupational therapy or podiatry services and those who provide legal services, chaplaincy services, advocacy services, or inspection of the LTRCF for monitoring or regulatory purposes. Access for ESPs cannot be denied, they should only be limited in the most exceptional circumstances and for defined periods in the context of specific public health advice. ESPs should ensure that they have, at a minimum, taken on-line training in hand hygiene and in the donning and doffing of relevant personal protective equipment available on the HSE website and that their organisation has appropriate supports to document and manage adverse incidents.

The term visitor does not encompass Important Service Providers (ISPs) who provide services that are important to resident's sense of self and wellbeing but that are not strictly necessary. Examples of ISPs include those who provide personal care (for example hairdressers) and entertainers. A LTRCF should have a list of important service providers with whom there is an established relationship and clarity around infection prevention and control requirements. ISPs should ensure that they have, at a minimum, taken on-line training in hand hygiene and in the donning and doffing of relevant personal protective equipment available on the HSE website.

Critical and compassionate circumstances are difficult to define and of necessity require judgement. The term should not be interpreted as limited to circumstances when the death of a resident is imminent.

Subject to a risk assessment in each case, examples of critical and compassionate circumstances may include:

- At framework levels 3 and 4 up to one visit per week by one person should be facilitated on compassionate grounds.
- At framework level 5 up to one visit every two weeks by one person should be facilitated on compassionate grounds and up to one visit every week by one person may be appropriate in certain disability services based on risk assessment.
- Circumstances in which a resident is significantly distressed or disturbed and although unable to express the desire for a visit there is reason to believe that a visit from a significant person may relieve distress.
- When there is an exceptionally important life event for the resident (for example death of a spouse or birthday).
- When the visitor may not have another opportunity to visit for many months or years or never (for example because they are leaving the country or are themselves approaching end of life).
- Increased visiting is recommended by their doctor as a non-pharmacological therapeutic alternative to an increased dose of an existing agent or introduction of a new anxiolytic or sedative agent.

- A resident expresses a strong sense of need to see someone whether for personal reasons, to make financial or other arrangements or to advocate on their behalf.
- A person nominated by the resident expresses concern that a prolonged absence is causing upset or harm to a resident.
- Other circumstances in which the judgement of the medical or nursing staff or social care worker caring for the resident is that a visit is important for the person's health or sense of well-being.

Introduction

Infection prevention and control (IPC) practice is critical to the safe operation of LTRCFs at all times. The focus on the rigorous application of IPC measures is increased in the context of a public health (PH) emergency such as the current pandemic in particular given the impact of COVID-19 on older people.

Good evidence regarding the role of visiting in contributing to the occurrence of outbreaks in this context is lacking, however, visiting restrictions are widely practiced internationally as a protective measure with some variations in how they are applied. However, as per regulatory requirements, visiting is part of the normal daily functioning of LTRCFs. Therefore, the service provider is responsible for doing all that is practical to support safe visiting. The LTRCF should have the capacity and relevant skill sets within its staffing complement to manage this appropriately.

LTRCFs are the home environments of individuals residing there and as such the importance of maintaining family connections with loved ones must not be underestimated from a holistic person-centred approach. This guidance document recognises the autonomy of residents in LTRCFs and their right to have or refuse visitors and contact with family members. It aims to support providers in fulfilling their responsibility by giving guidance to management, staff, residents and relatives to balance the risk of COVID-19 while facilitating visiting during these exceptional times. As part of this person-centred approach, timely communication in a manner appropriate to the individual resident will include an overview of the proposed visiting arrangements and any updates or changes that may occur in accordance with public health/infection control advice.

The Registered Provider/Person in Charge has a responsibility to ensure that the autonomy of residents and the right to have visitors is balanced with the need to ensure that visits do not compromise overall resident care or adherence to requisite infection control procedures. Visitors who do not adhere to guidance will be asked to leave and may be declined access subsequently if there is a pattern of non-adherence. Consultation with local Public Health teams and IPC expertise will assist the Registered Provider/Person in Charge with review of their plans and risk mitigation in order to facilitate visiting. Restrictions should be applied on the basis of a documented risk assessment that is reviewed regularly in view of the evolving public health situation and new guidance. A risk assessment should take account of the overall care needs, rights and wishes of residents, the vulnerability of the residents, the current incidence of COVID-19 in the surrounding community and the capacity of the LTRCF in terms of buildings, grounds and human resources to manage risks associated with visiting.

The nature and purpose of visiting restrictions as outlined in the risk assessment should be communicated to residents and their significant others and there should be an opportunity to discuss the impact of the restrictions on individuals.

In the context of the impact on the person it is important to take account of major cultural or religious festivals or celebrations of particular significance to the resident. For many people in Ireland Christmas is of particular significance. Equal provision must be made for people from other traditions and belief systems.

At such times every practical effort should be made at Framework Levels 1 and 2 to facilitate residents visiting with a small group of family or friends in a private residence. For practical reasons it may be necessary to limit the number of residents from a LTRCF leaving to visit elsewhere on one specific day but a visit may be possible at some time over the Christmas and New Year period. Consideration of a visit to a private residence is based on the resident wishing to make a visit and a risk assessment that indicates that the associated risk of introduction of COVID-19 into the LTRCF is low. That risk assessment will generally require discussion between a senior member of the nursing staff in the LTRCF and the person or people hosting the proposed visit. A critical element in facilitating visits away from the LTRCF is the functional independence of the residents. For residents who are highly dependent on support for activities of daily living organising a visit may be impractical and the risks are also likely to be greater because of the intensity of contact with informal carers that is likely to be necessary during the visit. Other key elements of such a risk assessment are the extent to which those hosting the visit can limit the number of people the resident is exposed to on the way to and from the place, their ability to limit the number of people the resident is exposed to during the visit (generally no more than 6 other people) and an undertaking from those hosting the visit to ensure that the small group present during the visit are checked for symptoms on arrival.

If the resident is absent from the LTRCF for less than 12 hours and in the absence of any reported unintended exposure there is generally no requirement for the resident to restrict movement to their room on their return. If the resident is absent from the LTRCF for more than 12 hours (typically an overnight stay), the resident should be asked to stay in their room as much as possible for 14 days after the visit and should be offered testing on or about day 5 after their return.

At all framework levels every practical effort should be made to accommodate an additional visit to residents who wish to receive visitors in the LTRCF on compassionate grounds during the period a major cultural or religious festivals or celebrations of particular significance to the resident. For example a visit should where possible be facilitated during the Christmas/New Year period for those residents for whom this is an important period.

All these measures should align with national guidance in relation to IPC, current and future guidance and recommendations with regard to social distancing, guidance for people over 70 years old and those extremely medically vulnerable and other public health measures, and in addition, current and future guidance specific to LTRCFs.

1.1 Visiting in LTRCF with no ongoing COVID-19 outbreak

1.1.1. During periods of Framework Level 1

Visiting for residents in LTRCFs where there is no ongoing COVID-19 outbreak should be encouraged with appropriate practical precautions to manage the risk of introduction of COVID-19 with protective measures as follows:

Outdoor visiting is expected to carry a lower risk than indoor visiting and should be encouraged where appropriate to the needs of the resident and subject to weather.

The duration of the visit may generally be limited to an hour with flexibility on compassionate grounds in special circumstances. In this context special circumstances should encompass accommodating, in so far as practical, the needs of a spouse or other person who plays a key role in providing practical and emotional support for the resident.

In general the number of visits per resident per week should be 2 visits with up to 2 people at each visit. This is subject to the capacity of the LTRCF to schedule the visits safely. Visits should only take place when there is sufficient staff on duty to manage visiting. Visits should generally occur away from mealtimes however if a resident is taking a meal in their room and would like a visitor to assist them that can be facilitated.

Each resident should have nominated visitors for whom the LTRCF has contact details. There is no requirement to limit the number of nominated visitors. Visitors should generally be limited to 2 per resident at a time but with flexibility as appropriate on compassionate grounds to meet the needs of residents (for example see below re children).

In general visits should be arranged in advance with the facility but a LTRCF may consider if flexibility is appropriate on compassionate grounds to meet the needs of residents and their significant others.

Visits should be scheduled to avoid heavy footfall in the LTRCF at any time. It is expected that each facility will consider the number of visitors they can accommodate and discuss these plans with IPC who can then seek public health advice if required.

A separate entrance and exit for visitors is encouraged but is not a requirement.

Visitors should be made aware of the visiting processes that apply which are symptom and temperature-checking, determination of previous known exposure to COVID-19, and use of correct hand hygiene techniques. In addition, they should be made aware that any visitors with fever or respiratory symptoms will not be admitted.

Visitors should be asked if they have COVID-19 or had close contact with a person with COVID-19 / suspected COVID-19 symptoms within the time period as determined by national guidance. Visitors should declare that they have no symptoms and undergo a temperature check before entering the LTRCF. People who have had COVID-19 but for whom the infectious period has passed may visit as for other people.

Visitors are required to sign in on entry to the facility (regulatory requirement). Visitors should be advised to bring their own pen and be guided in performing hand hygiene when they arrive and before signing in. The sign in may be in the format of an acceptance of personal responsibility for their behaviour and for unavoidable risk.

Visitors are required to perform hand hygiene and wear a cloth-face covering or a surgical mask during the visit. It is not appropriate to ask visitors who are asymptomatic to wear gloves, apron, gown or eye-protection during the visit. The resident may be asked to wear a cloth-face covering or a surgical mask during the visit if they can do so comfortably but this is not necessary if distance is maintained. It is not appropriate to ask the resident to wear gloves, apron, gown or eye-protection during the visit.

People who have recently travelled to Ireland are advised to restrict movements for a period of 14 days and therefore should not generally visit LTRCF however where there are compelling reasons to facilitate an urgent visit to a LTRCF during that period a person should not be excluded solely on the grounds of recent travel provided that they can comply with all other requirements specified.

Even when the visitor and resident are alone together and at a safe distance from others continued use of the face covering or mask is preferred but it may be appropriate to remove the mask in some circumstances where it represents an impediment to communication, impedes recognition or disturbs the resident. The facility should provide any necessary personal protective equipment. While physical contact (for example an embrace, hug or holding hands) between visitors and the resident should generally be avoided some flexibility is appropriate in particular towards end of life of for residents who are distressed.

Visits should occur either in the resident's room if the room is a single room, or in the case of a multi-occupancy facility, in a room away from other people or in an outdoor area (weather permitting) where distance can be maintained.

Organised outings by bus or car should generally be facilitated with individual risk assessments completed and overseen by the Person in Charge in order to eliminate any identified risk.

Outings for a drive with a visitor may be facilitated subject to risk assessment and confirming that the visitor does not have symptoms of COVID-19 and is not a COVID-19 contact. Where residents go for a drive the resident and visitor should be reminded of the need for people over 70 years old and those extremely medically vulnerable to take extra care when outside the LTRCF. They should be careful to observe social distancing with respect to others, be careful with respect to hand hygiene and use of face coverings as per public health guidance both in the car and if they leave the car for any reason.

Gifts of baked goods whether homemade or commercially produced are most unlikely to pose a significant risk and should not be restricted on infection prevention and control grounds.

There is no infection prevention and control requirement to limit or restrict residents from receiving items such as books, magazines, confectionery, keepsakes or objects of religious or personal significance. The items should be clean on delivery but need not be new. There is no justification for restricting receipt of items offered to a resident to items acquired at a specific retailer or retailers. There is generally no requirement to store items for an extended period after delivery before they are given to the resident. If a LTRCF opts to apply a period of storage before delivery it should not be longer than 1 day.

Visits by a child may be facilitated if the child is accompanied by an adult who takes responsibility for ensuring appropriate conduct and the child is able to comply with the general requirements for visiting.

The resident's right to decline a visitor shall be respected.

There are no restrictions on Essential Service Providers or Important Service Providers in Framework Level 1 other than adherence to good infection prevention and control practice.

1.1.2 During Periods of Framework Level 2

During Framework Level 2 the guidance is as above with the following modifications to reflect the need for enhanced protective measures.

The number of people participating in each visit should be reduced to 1 unless there are compassionate or critical circumstances that require that the person should be accompanied by an additional person or additional visits are required.

The number of visits facilitated is independent of the number of nominated visitors for example a person may choose to have all their visits from one person or the same total number of visits rotated among the nominated visitors.

Essential service providers and important service providers are not included as visitors for this purpose.

Visits should be strictly arranged in advance with the facility.

Visitors are required to wear a surgical mask throughout the visit unless there is a specific difficulty that prevents wearing a mask. If a mask cannot be tolerated they should wear a visor that extends from above the eyes to below the chin and from ear to ear. PPE should be provided by the LTRCF if required.

Organised outings by bus or car should be avoided.

Outings for a social drive with a visitor should be avoided.

It is important to note that at all Framework Levels some flexibility is required when residents have essential business to conduct for example visit to the post office, bank or legal services or critical personal requirements for example related to death of a family member or a visit to a family grave.

Visits by children should be avoided except in compassionate or critical circumstances.

There are no restrictions on Essential Service Providers in Framework Level 2 other than adherence to good infection prevention and control practice. Reduced access for Important Service Providers may be required.

1.1.3 Visiting during Framework Levels 3, 4 and 5

Suspended aside from critical and compassionate circumstances.

To promote wellbeing up to one visit by one person per week should be facilitated on compassionate grounds for those residents who wish to receive visitors when at Framework Levels 3 and 4.

Up to one visit by one person every two week should be facilitated on compassionate grounds for those residents who wish to receive visitors when at Framework Level 5.

Note that in certain disability services and in the context of a risk assessment that has regard to the configuration of the facility and the medical vulnerability of the resident's one visit by one person every week may be appropriate at Framework Level 5.

Some residents may express a preference not to receive visitors for the duration of the COVID-19 pandemic or for specific periods at higher Framework Levels. Where residents express that preference it must be respected. However, where a resident has expressed a preference not to receive visitors, the resident should be formally communicated with at reasonable intervals to ensure that their preference is unchanged and current preference is recorded.

Visits facilitated on compassionate grounds should be limited to one person in all but the most exceptional circumstances. Visits will normally be limited to 1 hour but with appropriate flexibility for example in relation to situations such as end of life. Visitors are required to give a commitment in advance of the visit to maintain distance from the resident at all times.

There is no requirement that visits facilitated on compassionate grounds should always be by the same person. There is no reason to expect the risk of introduction of COVID-19 is reduced by having the same person make all visits facilitated on compassionate grounds. The ability to have another person take the visit as short notice may support visitors in adherence to guidance not to come for a visit if they have any concern whatever regarding their health on the day scheduled for the visit.

As above, in the context of Framework Level 3, a more flexible interpretation of critical and compassionate circumstances is appropriate compared with Framework Level 4 and 5.

There are no restrictions on Essential Service Providers in Framework Level 3, 4 and 5 other than adherence to good infection prevention and control practice. Suspension of access for Important Service Providers may be required at Framework Level 3 and will generally be required during Framework Level 4 and 5.

1.2 Visiting in the context of an outbreak of COVID-19

The risks of the virus introduction associated with visiting during an outbreak are different from those in a LTRCF without an outbreak of COVID-19 because in the former case the virus is already in the facility. The risk to visitors is a much more significant concern during an outbreak. The following approach applies to LTRCF during an ongoing outbreak of COVID-19.

While it is acknowledged that facilities have a right to decline visitors to the facility during an outbreak it is accepted that visiting constitutes a key element of resident welfare and therefore all efforts to support same should be made in the appropriate context and with the necessary supports.

Visiting and access within a LTRCF will generally be suspended in the first instance with the exception of critical and compassionate circumstances. Access for Important Service Providers will generally be suspended during the early phase of an outbreak.

When the situation has been evaluated by the outbreak control team and measures to control spread of infection are in place, family and friends should be advised that, subject to the capacity of available staff to manage, visits that are essential will be facilitated.

During an ongoing outbreak general visiting will be limited based on a documented risk assessment that is reviewed at least every 2 weeks. Significant considerations in the risk assessment include the outbreak related care workload for staff and the number of staff available which may limit capacity to manage visiting. If the outbreak is confined to 1 wing or 1 building on a campus there may be fewer requirements for visiting restrictions in other wings or buildings.

All visits during an outbreak are subject to the visitor accepting that all visiting during an outbreak is associated with a risk of infection for the visitor and that they choose to accept that risk. The LTRCF should request visitors to confirm that they have been advised of the risk to them, that they accept that risk and will comply fully with any measures they are asked to follow for their own protection or the protection of staff or residents. All visitors should be provided with any necessary personal protective equipment. Arrangements should be in place to support virtual visiting (telephone or video-link) to the greatest extent possible.

The messages around visiting during an outbreak should be communicated clearly to residents and reinforced by placing signage at all entry points to the facility and by any other practical means of communication with families and friends.
