ALBUM of the week  BOB DYLAN Springtime in New York JUST when you thought the vaults had to be empty, yet another treasure trove of Dylan songs have been found and packed to join the long line of albums released in the Bootleg Series. This one is bound to please, given it comes from the years 1980-1985 when he made some awful rubbish and some real gems. Included are some classics from Infidels, with the great Mark Knopfler at the desk. So, it ain't all that bad out there ... apart from the price. At £129 for the full collection, you'd need to be a die hard die hard!	CHARITY of the week  DAWN TO DUSK DAILY DIP www.smh.ie/fundraising/events/dawn-to-dusk-daily-dip-2021/ ST Michael's House, one of Ireland's largest providers of community-based services for individuals with intellectual disabilities, is challenging families to brave the open waters for the second annual 'Dawn to Dusk Daily Dip' fundraiser. Throughout August, the charity is encouraging people to take a quick dip between dawn and dusk to fundraise for vital supports. Pictured taking part in the charity event is journalist and broadcaster, Brendan O'Connor. Entry fee is €15.	BUSINESS of the week  SHOP LOCAL CAMPAIGN www.isme.ie/support/528.html NOW businesses are back in action, the Irish SME Association (ISME) has just launched its "Shop Local" summer campaign for consumers and businesses. To highlight products and services from SMEs across Ireland, a new online portal has been developed to support SMEs and service providers, centred around the slogan "Shop SMALL & Send BIG LOVE". Basically, it's a plea to go out and support your local stores and businesses, entertainment venues and the hospitality sector. Pictured: Susan Kennedy, MD of Lensmen.
